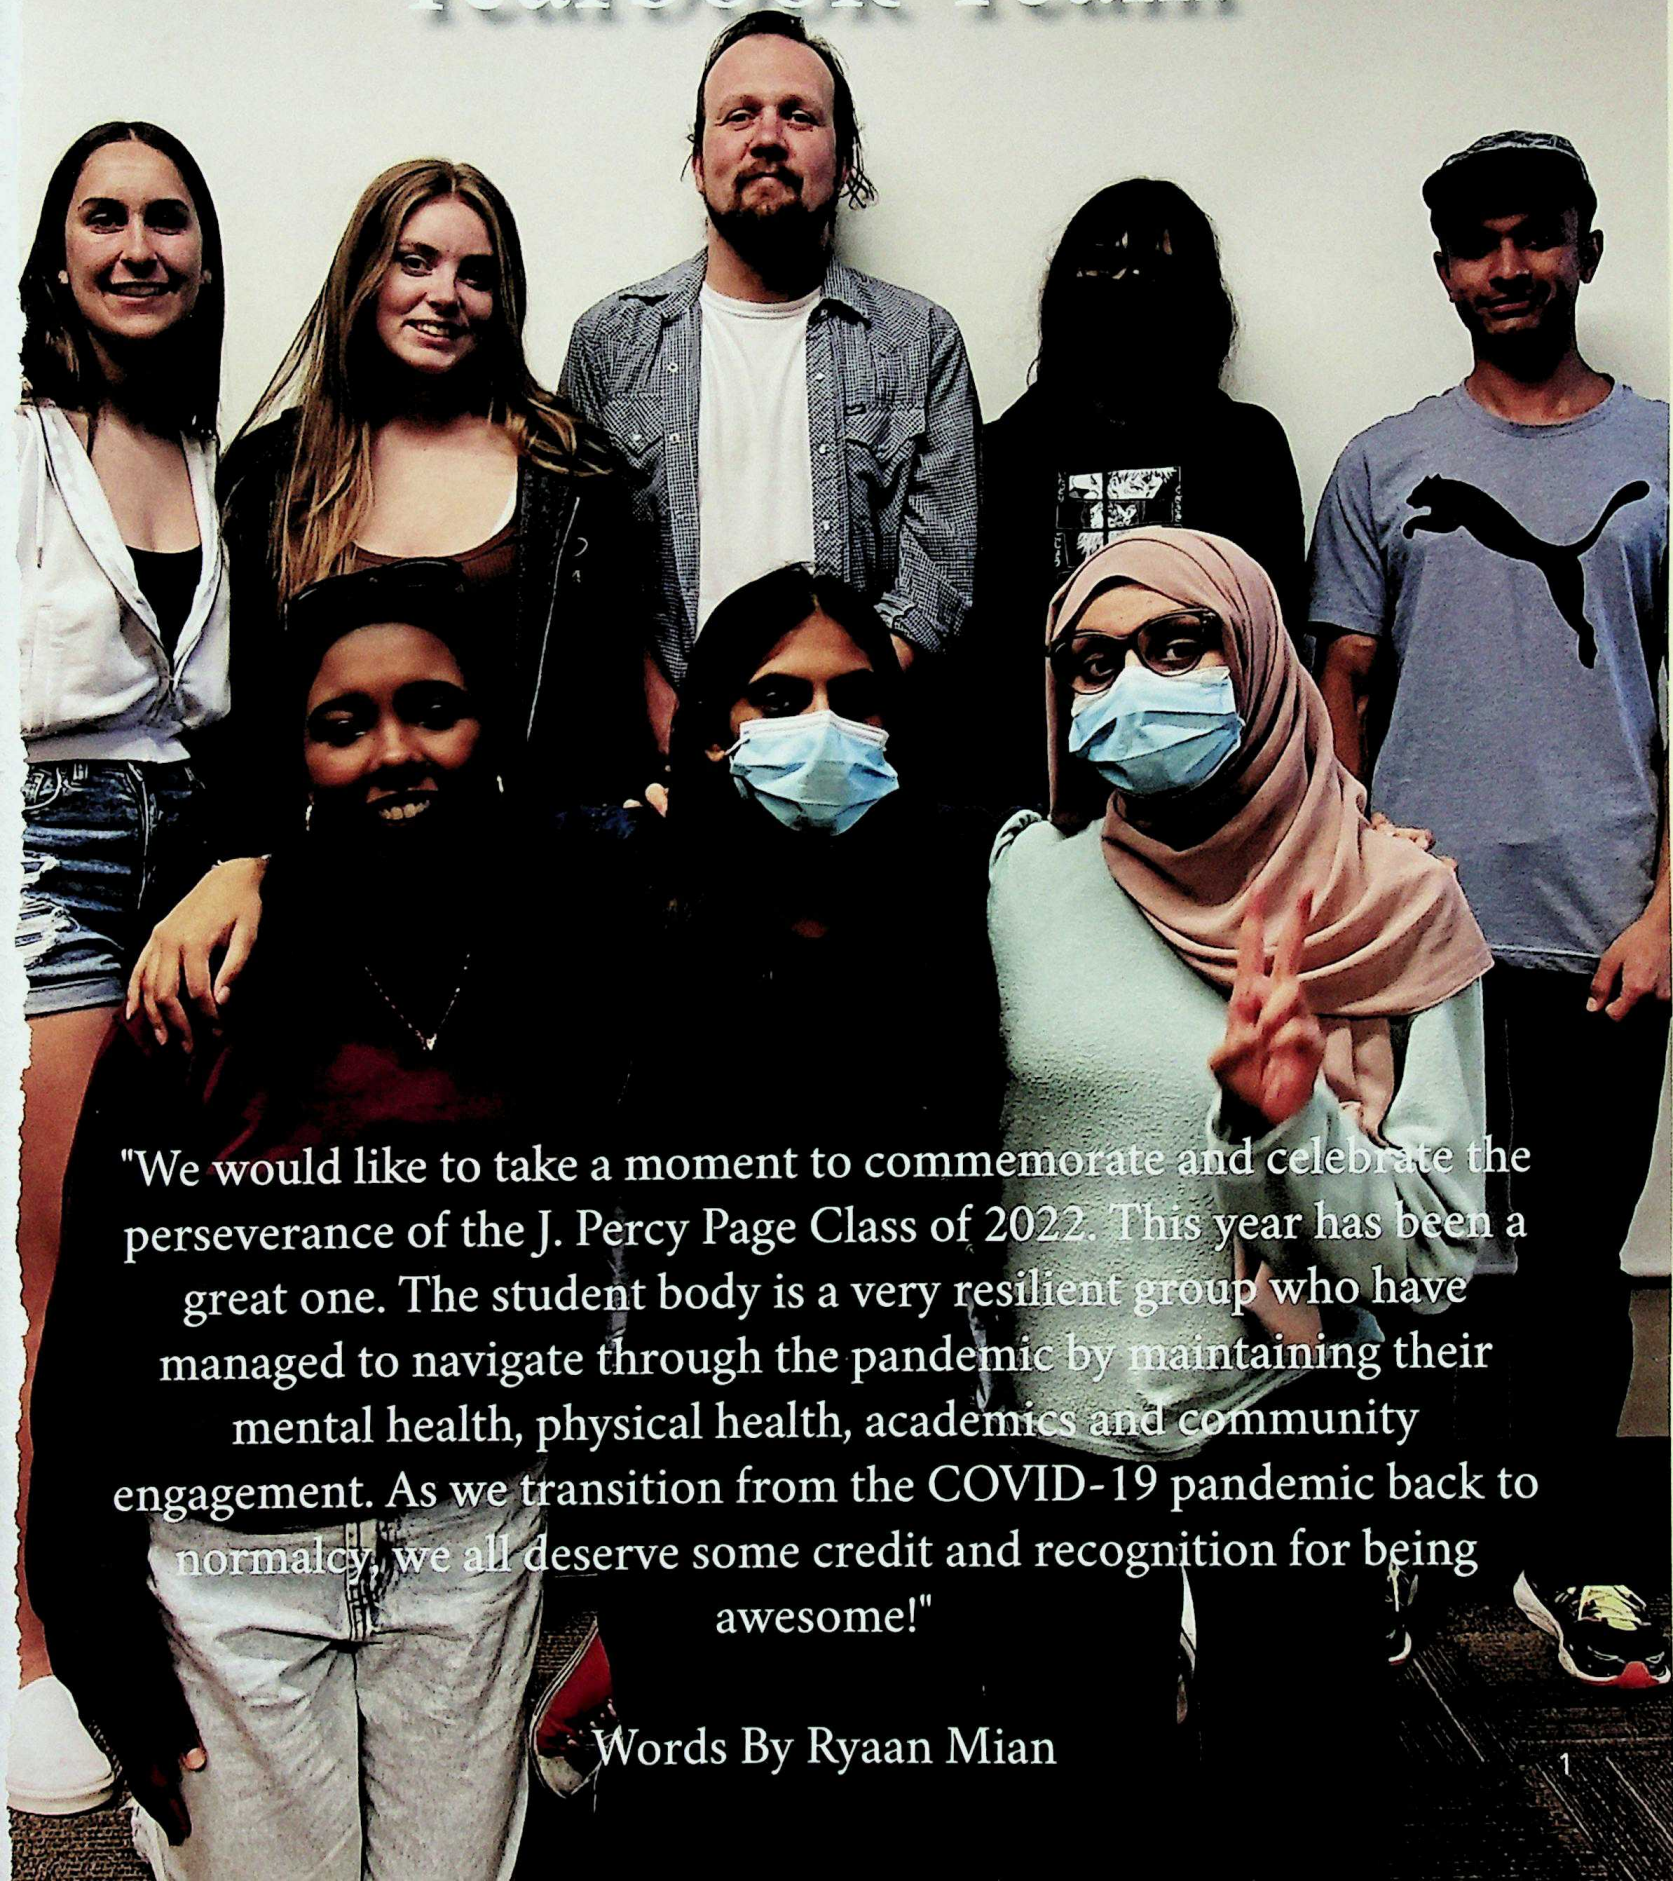
J. PERCY PAGE

2021-2022

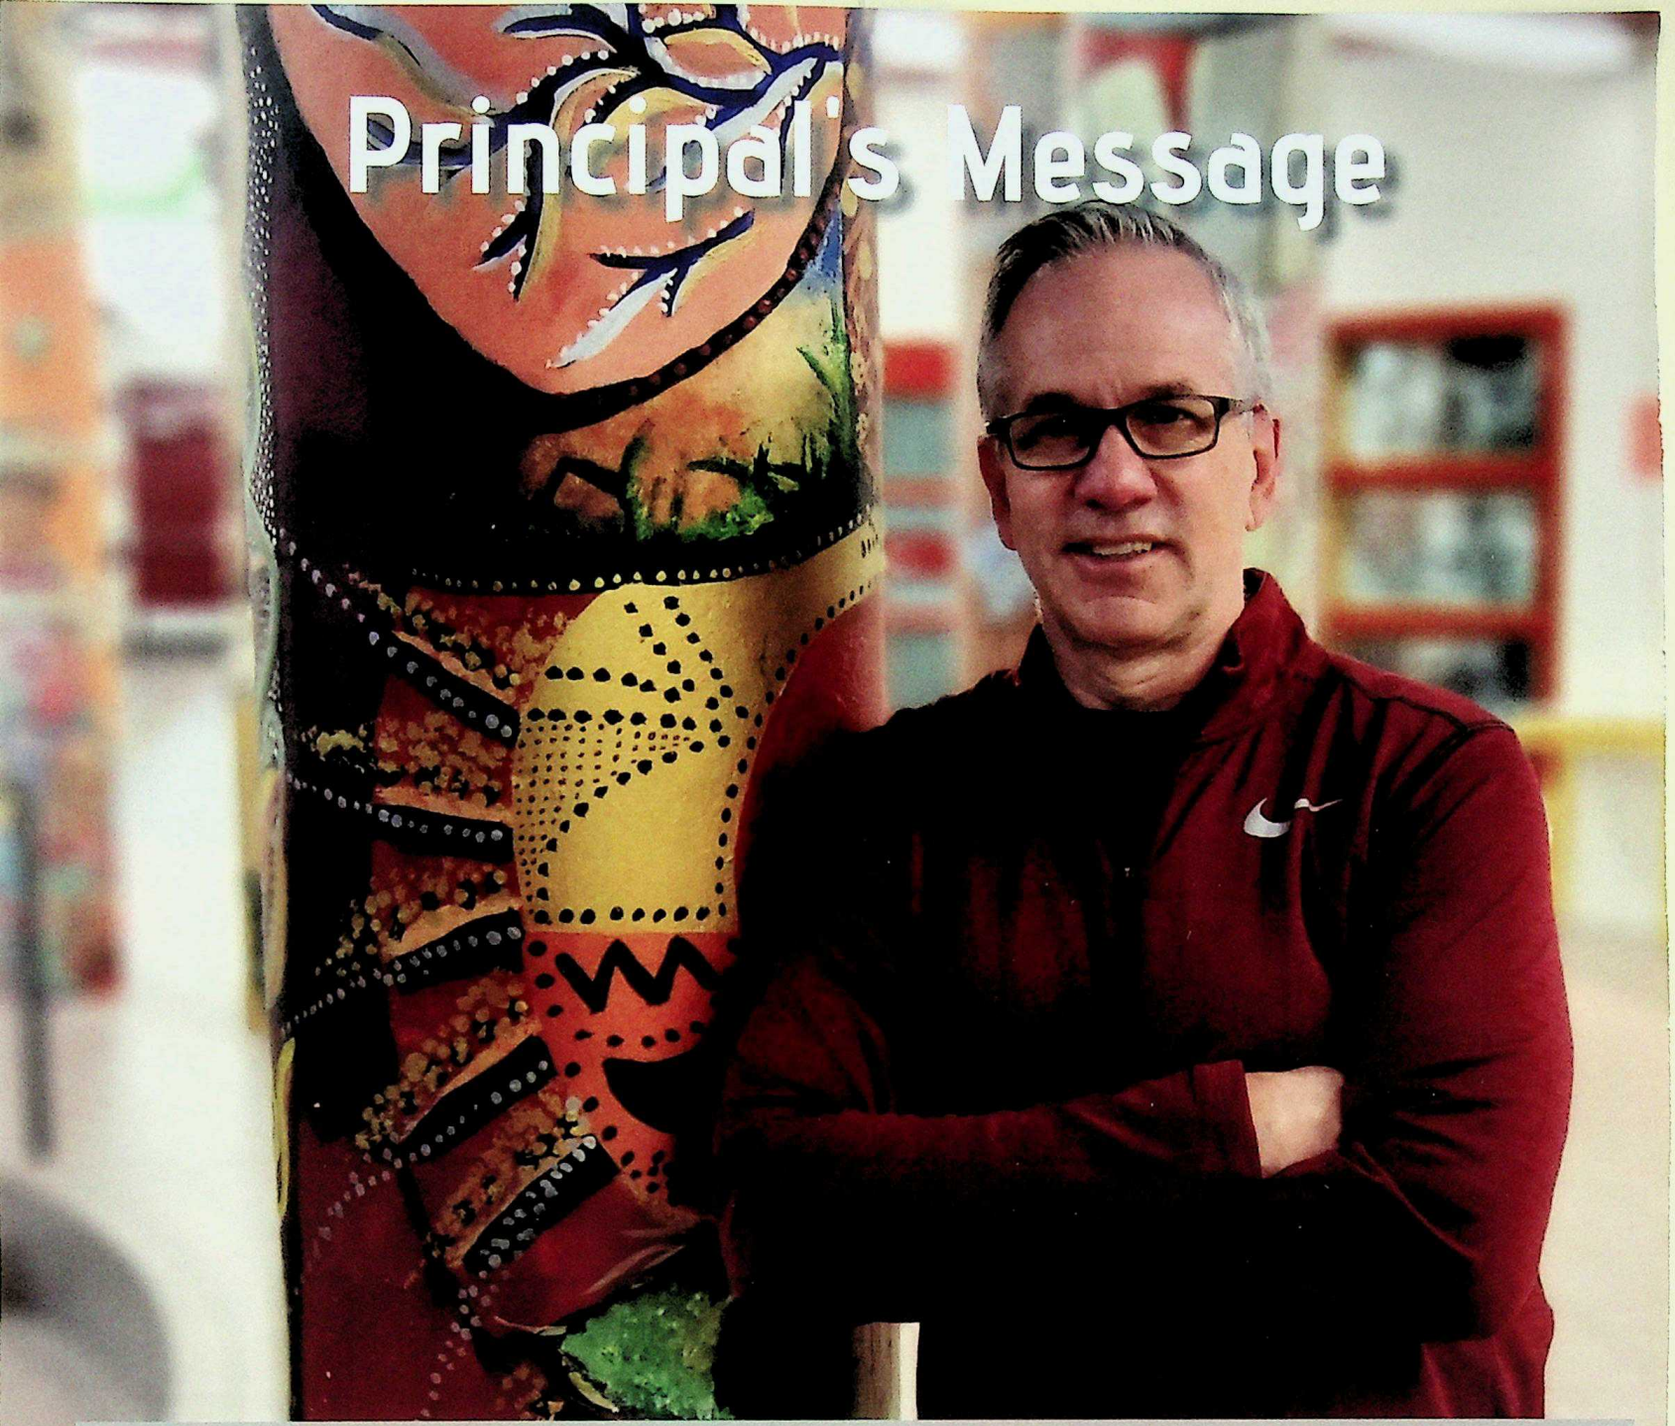
A Message From Your Yearbook Team



"We would like to take a moment to commemorate and celebrate the perseverance of the J. Percy Page Class of 2022. This year has been a great one. The student body is a very resilient group who have managed to navigate through the pandemic by maintaining their mental health, physical health, academics and community engagement. As we transition from the COVID-19 pandemic back to normalcy, we all deserve some credit and recognition for being awesome!"

Words By Ryaan Mian

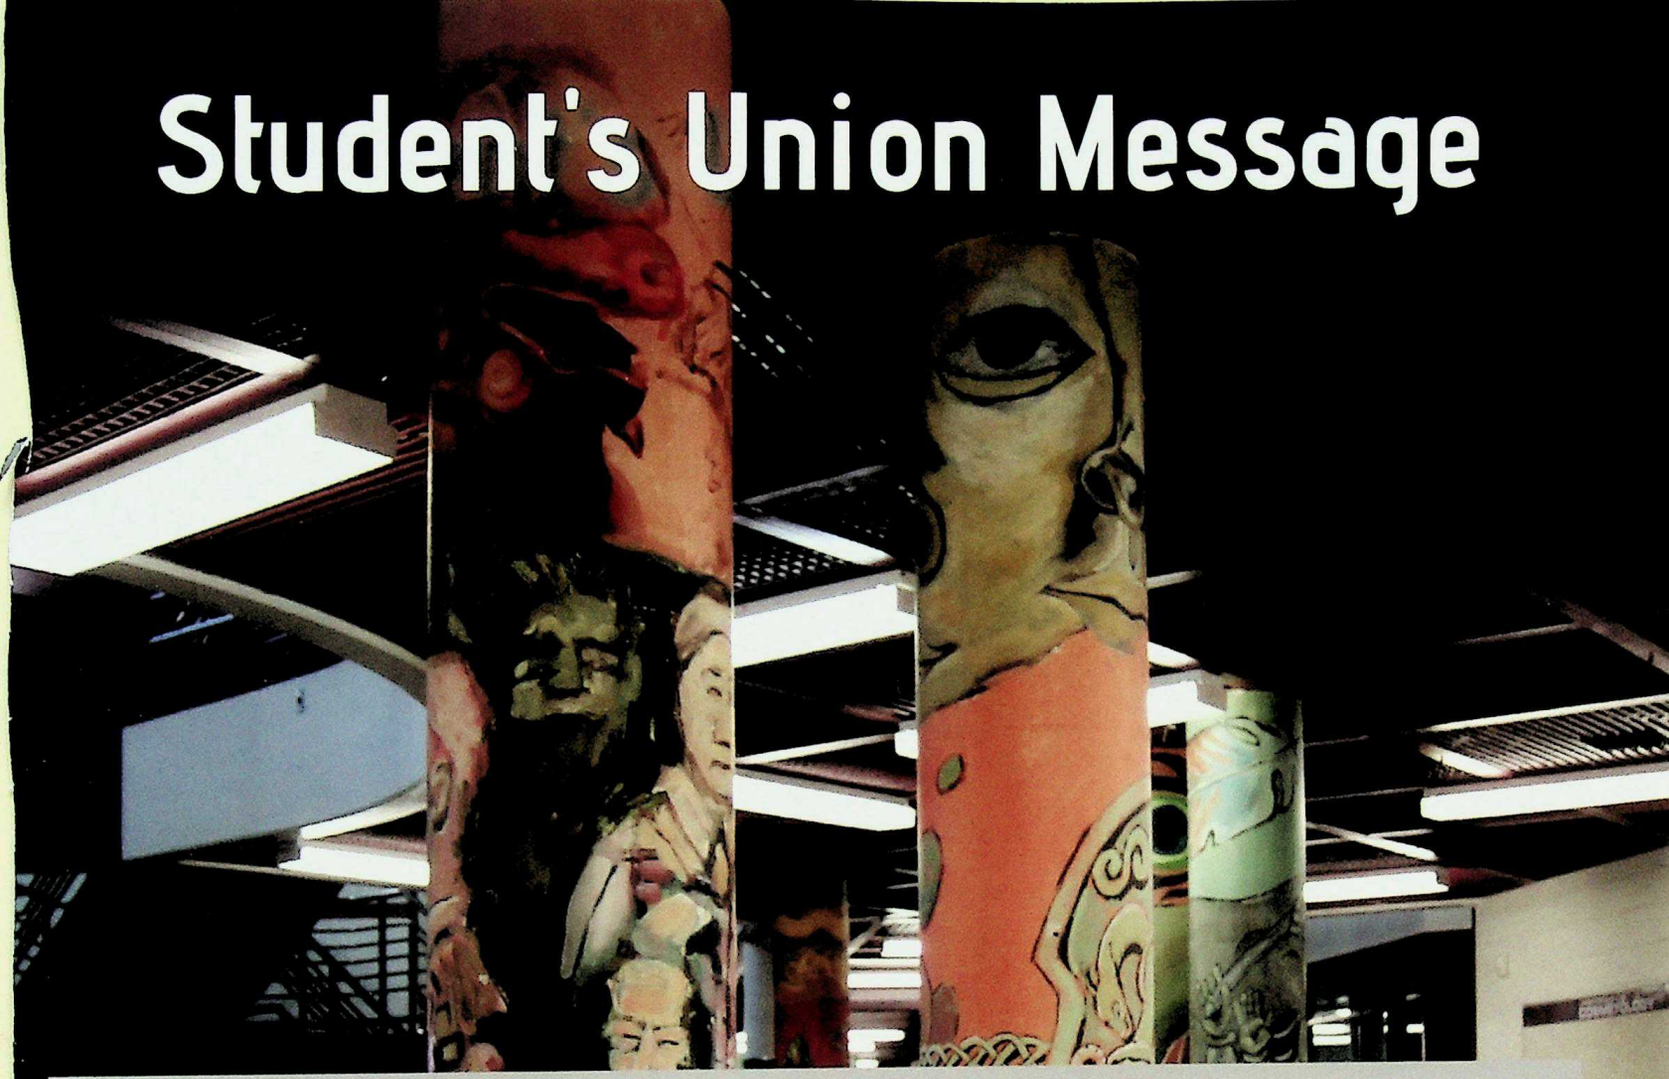
Principal's Message



It has been an honour to serve as your principal here at J. Percy Page High School. You truly are a talented and resilient group of students. The 2021-2022 school year was filled with emotional highs and lows due to the continuation of the worldwide pandemic that affected all of our students, staff, parents and the community at large. The coronavirus forced us to continue to do things differently, take us out of our comfort zone, and strive to do things that we never thought we could achieve. It certainly wasn't easy but each and every one of you handled it like rock stars and we couldn't be more proud.

This year I am completing my 33rd year in education and 15th as an EPBS school principal. This is my second assignment as an administrator at J. Percy Page, having previously served as an assistant principal back in 2004-2007. I have grown to love this community, the passion that it has for its residents and its culture. I consider it my second home. Its been a pleasure to work with all of the Page students over the years as I have always found them to be honest, hard working and passionate about their goals and dreams. I have no doubt that each one of you will find your place in the world that meets your expectations and hopes.
Good luck as you pursue your life dreams!

Student's Union Message



Congratulations to the class of 2022! Every graduate this year deserves praise and recognition for these past few years. We spent most of our high school years navigating this pandemic, yet we remained strong and completed one of the most significant periods of our lives. Today we embark on a new phase, one filled with excitement, fascination and passion. These challenging years, going through high school in a pandemic, have shaped us into who we are today. It has taught us how to adapt, remain resilient and take on a challenge. Let us appreciate our teachers, friends, family and peers for embarking on this journey alongside us. Let us celebrate all our accomplishments and wonderful memories we made this year to fully recognize this incredible achievement.

J. Percy Page has influenced each and every student with dignity and forward looking morals, in and out of the classroom. Over these last three years, we have been drawn closer as a student body, bonding and coming together over our shared experiences. Whether we realize it or not, it is truly amazing how each and every student has made an impact in our school community. Thank you to everyone for your contributions and efforts toward making a positive, kind and fun school environment over these challenging years. Let these unique memories and experiences forever inspire us during our future endeavors.

The time has come for us to follow our individual paths towards our future, whatever that means for each of us. Despite the pandemic, our school and student body has remained optimistic and resilient. The pandemic has brought us together through these hardships, building a stronger bond between us. What a special and unique time it has been. We never expected to face this obstacle throughout our high school years but may this time help guide us through our future, providing us skills of perseverance and bravery. We wish you all the best though this new chapter of your lives, as you chase your dreams and pursue your passions in life.

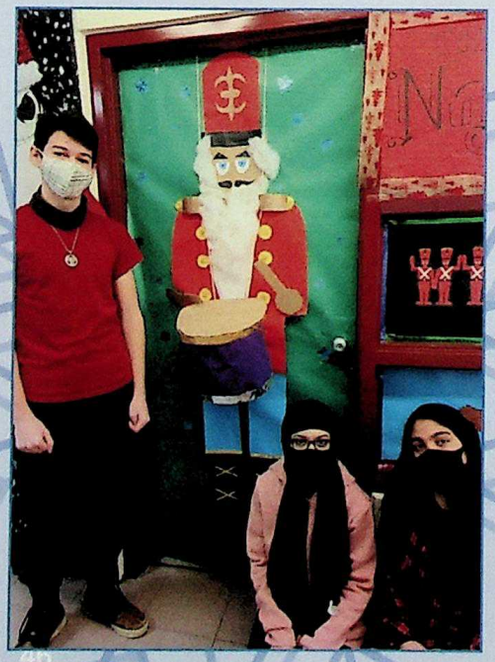
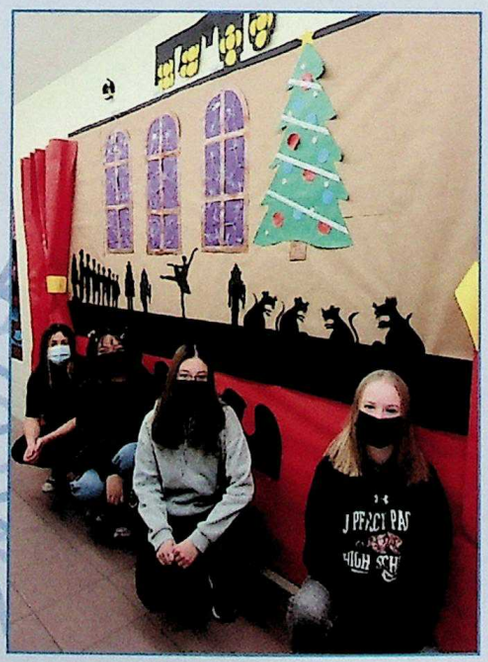
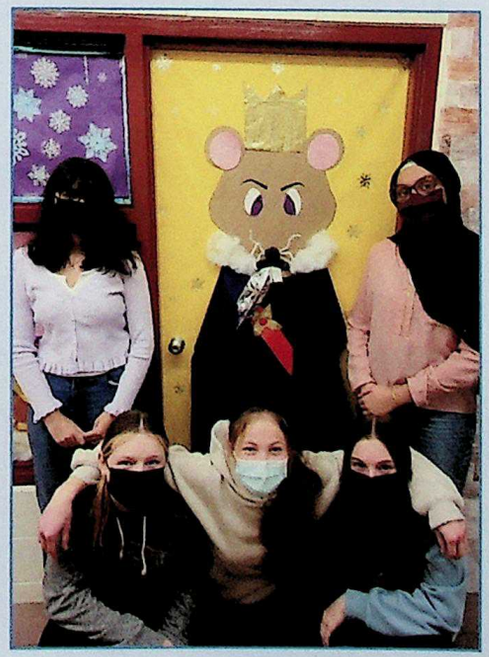
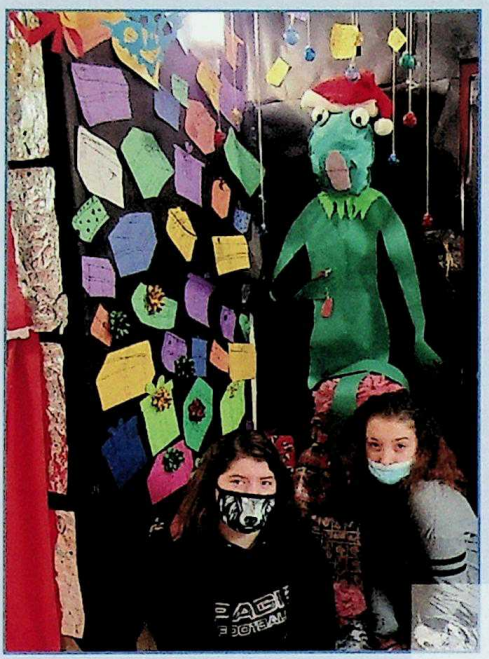
DOOR DECORATING CONTEST

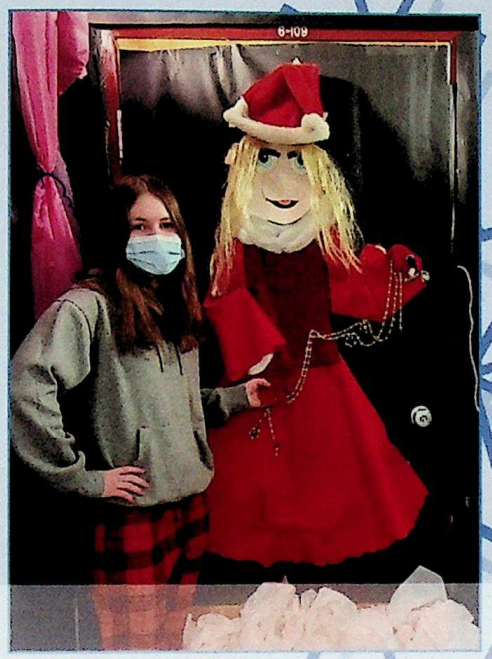
Deck the Halls

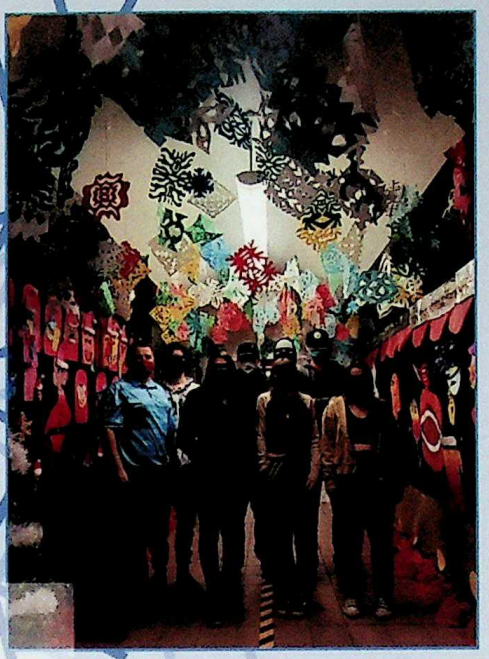












Students participated in the annual Door Decorating Contest. Block 1 students brainstormed to come up with unique designs, then set to work creating wonderful displays. Some students decorated just the classroom door, some extended the decorations to the wall and in some areas the whole hallway was decorated! All the displays were creative, unique and awe inspiring.

Congratulations to the winning design, Mrs. Morissette's English 30-1 class. They created a theme inspired from Tim Burton's "Nightmare Before Christmas". Their design extended down the hall to create an enchanted forest vibe. They recreated a whole scene from the film including an interaction diorama in the window.

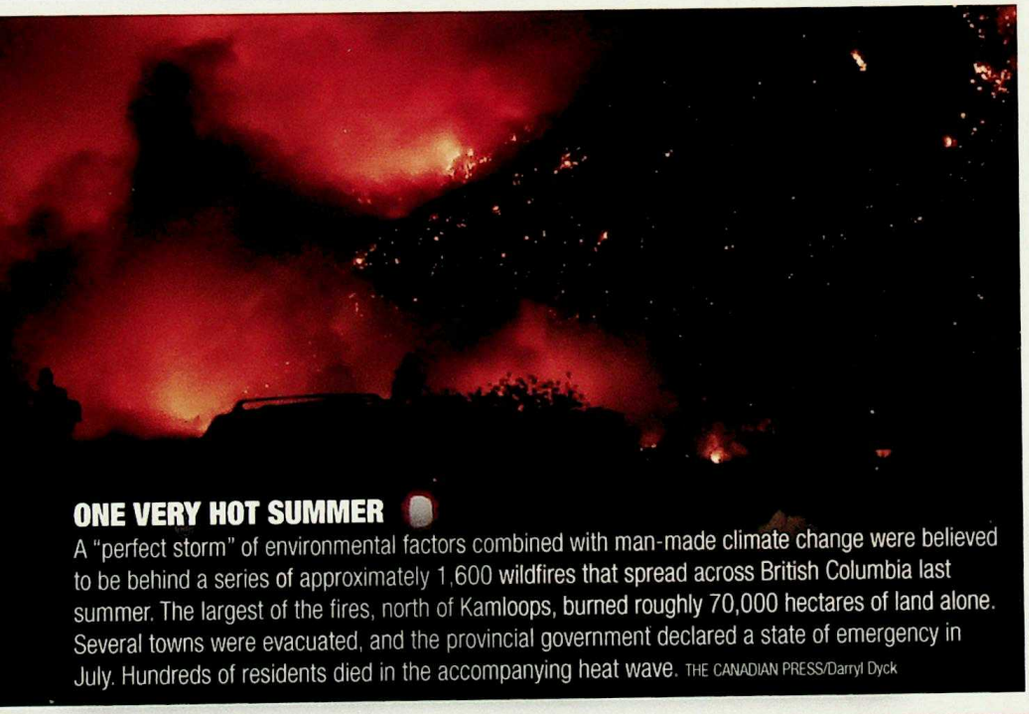
TRUTH AND RECONCILIATION
September 30 marked Canada's first National Day for Truth and Reconciliation, a new annual holiday honouring the victims and survivors of Canada's residential school system. A bill proposing the holiday was first put forth in 2020 and was approved by Parliament just days after the discovery of an unmarked gravesite at a former residential school in Kamloops, B.C.



ONE VERY HOT SUMMER
A "perfect storm" of environmental factors combined with man-made climate change were believed to be behind a series of approximately 1,600 wildfires that spread across British Columbia last summer. The largest of the fires, north of Kamloops, burned roughly 70,000 hectares of land alone. Several towns were evacuated, and the provincial government declared a state of emergency in July. Hundreds of residents died in the accompanying heat wave. THE CANADIAN PRESS/Darryl Dyck

ENVIRONMENTAL VICTORY
On his first day in office, U.S. President Joe Biden revoked a crucial permit for the construction of the Keystone XL pipeline, which would have seen roughly 1,900 kilometres of oil pipe laid from Alberta to Nebraska—a highly controversial project that had been on the books for a decade. As a result, in June, the pipeline's sponsor, TC Energy, cancelled the project, to the delight of environmentalists and Indigenous leaders whose land would have been affected.

THE ONGOING PANDEMIC
As the COVID-19 pandemic continued into a second year, vaccines gained widespread traction in 2021. In the spring, the fast-spreading Delta variant caused a new wave of the pandemic just as many businesses, schools, and public spaces were hoping to reopen, while Omicron did the same in the fall, though with less fatal results. By early 2022, more than 3.3 million cases of COVID-19 had been reported in Canada, along with more than 37,000 deaths.

SUPPLY CHAIN SHORTAGES
The pandemic-induced shortage of goods continued throughout into the second year, shining a light on the instability of the global supply chain. The shortages, which ranged from computer chips to running shoes—plus the materials and machinery used to make them—were caused by a combination of early lockdowns, which prevented goods from being made, and an erroneous assumption that consumers would shop less during the pandemic.

NOT FORGOTTEN

For decades, unmarked graves containing the remains of Indigenous children have been identified at the sites of former Indian residential schools. The topic however gained renewed prominence with several new discoveries made in 2021, when an anthropologist found 215 such graves at the site of a former school in Kamloops, B.C. Additional searches led by various First Nations are currently underway.

WATER CRISIS

Residents of the Nunavut town of Iqaluit were without potable water for two months during the fall of 2021, after their tap water was contaminated with fuel from a tank buried near the town's treatment plant. It wasn't the first time the tank had contaminated the water supply. In January 2022, fuel from the tank once again leaked into the town's water supply.

FEDERAL ELECTION

Though Prime Minister Justin Trudeau had hoped to win a majority for his reigning Liberal party when he called a federal election in August—less than two years after the previous one—he still came up 14 seats short of winning a majority. In the September 2021 election, Trudeau lost the popular vote to the Conservatives. Though Conservative leader Erin O'Toole won the popular vote, he was later ousted from the party in February following a leadership review.

RACIALLY MOTIVATED ATTACK

In June 2021, four members of a Muslim Pakistani family from London, Ontario, were killed and one injured when 20-year-old Nathaniel Veltman seemingly drove his pickup onto a curb and ran the family down. The police called it an Islamophobia-motivated attack. It was the deadliest mass killing in the city's history. Veltman was charged with four counts of first-degree murder, one count of attempted murder, as well as terror charges, and is currently awaiting trial.

FREEDOM CONVOY

On January 22, 2022, several convoys of transport trucks and other vehicles from across Canada made their way to Ottawa, protesting regulations barring unvaccinated drivers from crossing the Canada–U.S. border, among other government mandates. While the convoy's activities were centered in and around Parliament Hill, trucks also blocked access to the Ambassador Bridge at the Windsor-Detroit border and created traffic jams in other cities. On February 14, Prime Minister Justin Trudeau evoked the Emergencies Act, allowing police to make arrests and remove vehicles.

PUTIN INVADES UKRAINE

In February 2022, Russian president Vladimir Putin launched a military invasion of neighbouring Ukraine in an attempt to reintegrate the country into something resembling the former Soviet Union, while also preventing democratic nations from encircling Russia. As foreign powers grappled with how to respond, the Ukrainian people put up a significant resistance, seemingly to Putin's surprise.

DESMOND TUTU DIES

In December 2021, Archbishop Desmond Tutu, the anti-apartheid, and human rights activist, died from persistent infection due to prostate cancer at the age of 90. Tutu won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1984 for his anti-apartheid actions and became archbishop—the highest position in Africa's Anglican church—of Cape Town in 1986. At Tutu's request, his body was displayed in an inexpensive pine coffin before being aquamated, a cremation-like process that emits less carbon dioxide.

TV ROYALTY

More than 30 million viewers around the world tuned in March 2021 as Oprah Winfrey hosted a tell-all interview with two former senior members of the British royal family, Harry and Meghan. Over the course of an hour and a half, the Duke and Duchess of Sussex covered a wide range of topics, including their marriage, Meghan's mental health struggles, and how her sister-in-law, the Duchess of Cambridge, made her cry. In one of the most explosive revelations from the interview, the Duchess said that a member of the royal family made racist comments about their then unborn son.

HISTORIC MEETING

In March 2021, Pope Francis travelled to the city of Najaf in Iraq to meet with Grand Ayatollah Ali al-Sistani, a senior cleric in Shia Islam. Francis, in the first ever papal visit to Iraq, urged peaceful coexistence between Muslims and Christians, a sentiment al-Sistani echoed to the people of Iraq following the historic meeting.

END ON THE HORIZON

By early 2022, 448 million cases of COVID-19 had been reported worldwide, leaving roughly six million dead. New variants continued to present themselves throughout the pandemic's second year, though the lesser severity of the Omicron variant gave some hope that a return to normal might be around the corner—but the pandemic's constant, unexpected surprises, still leave many guessing.

DIRE CLIMATE CRISIS

In February, a scientific report commissioned by the United Nations stated that climate change was now happening so fast that it would soon be impossible for humans and nature to adapt, unless countries committed to reducing greenhouse gas emissions very soon. If nothing was done, the report said, severe weather conditions already taking place across the planet would continue and worsen, displacing people on a global scale.

A CONFLICT CONTINUES

Tensions rose in the ongoing Israeli-Palestinian conflict in May 2021, when protests broke out in East Jerusalem over an expected supreme court decision to evict several Palestinian families in Sheikh Jarrah. Subsequently, a violent outbreak that lasted several weeks broke out. A ceasefire eventually took hold, but the situation led to protests around the world as foreign leaders called for de-escalation.

JUBILEE FOR A QUEEN

On February 6, 2022, England's Queen Elizabeth II celebrated her platinum jubilee, marking 70 years on the throne. While the queen spent the actual anniversary quietly, a cumulative celebration is planned for June. It was the first platinum jubilee ever celebrated by a British monarch. Sadly, the queen was not able to share the celebration with her husband, Prince Phillip, who died at the age of 99 in April 2021, just a few months shy of his 100th birthday.

NO WAR, NO PEACE

After 20 years, President Biden ended what he called "America's longest war" when he pulled troops out of Afghanistan in August 2021. While the presence of U.S. soldiers in the country had been criticised for years, Biden was still condemned for what many saw as an abandonment of the Afghan people, especially as scenes of citizens clinging to U.S. evacuation planes were broadcast around the world. The Taliban quickly regained control of the country, and Biden admitted that the U.S. had proven unable to transform the region.

EVER GROUNDED

In March 2021, the Ever Given, a large container ship, became grounded in the Suez Canal—one of the busiest and most important trading routes in the world—blocking all traffic in the waterway for six days. Strong winds during a sandstorm caused the crew to lose steering ability and the ship to swing sideways and run aground. The blockade created a backup of more than 400 ships and halted an estimated US$10 billion worth of marine trade daily.

THE LATE ALEX TREBEK, beloved host of Jeopardy! left big shoes to fill. After several weeks of try-outs to select his successor, it was announced that the new host was one of the show's producers, Mike Richards, rather than the highly touted Mayim Bialik or fan favourite LeVar Burton. However, Richards never got to officially take the helm after multiple reports of past controversy surfaced. Now, more than a year after Trebek's death, everyone's favourite game show is still without a permanent host.

BIG MONEY, BIG VIEWERSHIP

Squid Game, Netflix's South Korean drama that combines The Hunger Games with Shark Tank, was television's latest pandemic guilty pleasure. The show, in which several hundred debt-ridden players compete in a series of deadly games for a chance to win big money, was so critically beloved when it launched in September that it quickly became Netflix's most-watched series in 94 countries.

SIGNING OFF

Consummate professional that she was, beloved TV actress Betty White left her fans wanting more, passing away in December, just weeks shy of her 100th birthday and all the anticipated celebrations that were to come with it. Other TV celebrities who died in 2021 included broadcaster Larry King, Ed Asner (Mary Tyler Moore, Elf), Michael K. Williams (The Wire), Jessica Walter (Arrested Development), while comedian Bob Saget (Full House) died earlier this year in January.

#BRITNEYFREED

In November, pop star Britney Spears was released from an involuntary conservatorship that had placed multiple restrictions on her personal and professional life for nearly 14 years. A #FreeBritney movement gained traction in recent years, thanks in part to the Framing Britney Spears documentary, and as stories of various types of abuse toward Spears by her conservators, primarily her father, began circulating, and as Spears grew more vocal about her displeasure with the arrangement.

In the accompanying story, Page's first major interview since announcing his new gender identity, the actor said he was finally letting himself "fully become who I am."

FOND FAREWELLS

Comedy fans were shocked in September to learn of the death of Norm Macdonald. The former star of Saturday Night Live and The Norm Show, was revealed to have been living with cancer for many years, something many of his closest friends were unaware of. Other celebrities who died this year included Siegfried of the Las Vegas magic act Siegfried and Roy, children's author Beverly Cleary (Ramona Quimby, Age 8), and New Journalism architect Joan Didion (Slouching Towards Bethlehem).

TROUBLE IN PARADISE

Media personality Kim Kardashian and singer Kanye West agreed to end their marriage in 2021, citing irreconcilable differences. The couple, who married in 2014, agreed to joint custody of their four children, and neither star sought financial support from the other. Despite this initial agreement of terms, in February, Kardashian petitioned for an expedited divorce proceeding, claiming West was refusing to accept that the marriage was over. The split became official in March.

LET'S GET PHYSICAL

Singer Adele's 30 ended 2021 as the year's most successful album, selling nearly 1.51 million units in the U.S.—many of which were physical copies. It was the first album to surpass the 1.5 million mark since Taylor Swift's Folklore in 2020. Not to be outdone entirely, Swift's rerecording of her 2012 album, Red, sold 1.2 million copies—114,000 on physical vinyl, the highest number of vinyl units sold since 1991.

NO ENCORE

Ten people were killed at a Travis Scott concert in Houston in November, when a crowd of fans pushed toward the stage during the singer's performance. Scott was appearing as part of his Astroworld Festival, an annual event dating back to 2018. Hundreds of attendees in the 50,000-strong audience were also injured in the crowd crush.

THE FINAL FRONTIER?

In October, Facebook's parent company changed its name to Meta. CEO Mark Zuckerberg said the move signalled the business's bet on the metaverse—a fully realized and fully interactive digital world—being the next big technological frontier. Though some critics were skeptical of the change, Zuckerberg's decision to move his company beyond social media may not be unfounded. In January 2022, Meta's stock dropped 26 percent after announcing it expected weak revenue growth in the coming quarter.

APPLE STOCK+

The first day of stock trading in 2022 saw Apple mark yet another milestone when it became the first U.S. company in history to obtain a market value of $3 trillion. Apple's tech dominance has led to a meteoric rise in share price, having hit $1 trillion in 2018 and $2 trillion in 2020. While a big part of the company's value is in devices like iPhones and iPads, about half of its worth is now in services, including cloud storage, fitness apps, music distribution, and original programming.

SOCIAL ME-DIA

Following the January 6, 2021, riots at the U.S. Capital, which many believe former president Donald Trump helped incite, Twitter permanently suspended the account @realDonaldTrump, citing a risk of further incitement and violence. Not surprisingly, Trump did not go quietly. A little over a year later, he launched Truth Social, a social media app of his own.

DEEP IMPACT

In November, NASA launched a mission to keep the world a little safer. It began investigating whether it could crash a ship into an asteroid and successfully nudge it out of the way in the event of a fatal collision course with Earth. The DART (Double Asteroid Redirection Test) mission, a $325 million project launched aboard a SpaceX rocket, will take nearly a year to reach the test binary asteroid, Didymos, which is 492 feet across—and in no danger of colliding with Earth.

WEBSTER'S WORD OF YEAR

With the COVID-19 pandemic still ongoing, it was no surprise that Merriam-Webster's word of the year for 2021 was "vaccine." The dictionary company noted that searches for the word were up more than 600 percent from 2020, and more than 1,000 percent from 2019. Although the word's literal meaning is a medical term for something that defends against disease, Webster's noted that the word also presently holds meaning for an ideological conflict.

TOKYO 2020 sports

2020 + 1

Delays inspired by the COVID-19 pandemic caused the 2020 Tokyo Summer Games to actually take place (minus spectators) in the summer of 2021—the first postponement due to a virus in Olympic history. The Tokyo organizing committee initially said the Games would take place as planned but opted to postpone after several countries threatened to withdraw over safety concerns. The 2022 Beijing Winter Olympics managed to roll out on time but suffered historically low viewership numbers.

ATHLETE LOSSES

Walter Gretzky may not have realized his own youthful dreams of playing in the NHL, but some might argue he did one better by passing on his own skills and knowledge to his son Wayne and, in turn, coaching him to becoming hockey's greatest player. Other sports figures who died in 2021 include boxing middleweight champion Marvelous Marvin Hagler, NHL goaltender Tony Esposito, and Hank Aaron, one the greatest players in professional baseball history.

A SUPER CAREER

In January 2022, Tom Brady announced his retirement from professional football after 22 seasons with the NFL. Widely considered the best quarterback in the league, Brady led the Tampa Bay Buccaneers to Super Bowl victory in 2021, making him the player with the most championship wins in NFL history. Throughout his career, Brady also earned records for most touchdown passes and most passing yards and earned seven Lombardi trophies and five Super Bowl MVPs.

A WINNING PERFORMANCE

Although U.S. gymnast Simone Biles still brought home a bronze medal from the 2020 Summer Games—which actually took place in summer of 2021—she ended up withdrawing from most of her events in Tokyo after stumbling through an early performance. Biles later cited mental health issues as the cause and was widely praised for drawing attention to an issue that is largely unspoken about in a sport where athletes often are expected to put performance first.

MAJOR BOX OFFICE IS HIS REWARD

Despite the on-again, off-again status of movie theatre re-openings, Sony's latest contribution to the Marvel Cinematic Universe, Spider-Man: No Way Home, brought in nearly $2 billion worldwide, making it the highest-grossing movie of 2021 and the sixth highest-grossing of all time. The film—featuring actor Tom Holland in the titular role—was widely loved by critics and audiences and opened up new territory for Marvel movies by (spoiler alert) crossing over with earlier pre-MCU films.

In January 2022, singer-songwriter Neil Young publicly stated he would remove his music from Spotify unless the streaming service cut ties with Joe Rogan, a podcaster widely criticized for sharing misinformation about COVID-19 vaccines (and for his on-air use of the N-word). Other artists, including Joni Mitchell, David Crosby, and India.Arie, followed suit. Spotify, which has stood by the host, signed Rogan to a reported $200 million deal in 2020 that helped make it one of the leading platforms for podcasts.

PLUGGED IN

In November, Ford announced it would increase production of electric vehicles to 600,000 units per year by 2023, placing it on the list of the top three largest producers of electric vehicles in the U.S., along with Tesla and General Motors. GM said it plans to have the capacity in North America to build 1 million EVs annually by 2025. In February 2022, Ford unseated Tesla in a Consumer Reports ranking, when its Mustang Mach-E was named the 2022 electric vehicle of the year.

INTANGIBLE ART, TANGIBLE CASH

After skirting the edges of public consciousness for several years, NFTs—a.k.a. non-fungible tokens—entered the Zeitgeist in 2021 following several high-profile transactions. This included a collage by the artist Beeple that sold at Christie's for $69 million—the first sale of its kind at an auction house. NFTs are certified digital assets that are unique and cannot be replicated or interchanged. The market for NFTs skyrocketed over the past year, and by the end of 2021, nearly $41 billion had been spent on them, making the market for NFTs almost as valuable as the global (tangible) art market.

BLAST OFF

The race to be the richest man in space blasted off in July, when both Richard Branson (of the Virgin Group) and Jeff Bezos (founder of Amazon) both broke through the Earth's atmosphere, via their Virgin Galactic and Blue Origin space transportation companies, respectively. Blue Origin made further news in October when it transported William Shatner, Star Trek's Captain Kirk, into space, an experience the actor called "profound."

GOING FOR THE GOLD

Team Canada won its first-ever gold in women's soccer at the 2020 Tokyo Olympics. Canada faced Sweden in the final match, ending the game with a 1–1 tie but earning the top spot on the podium after going 3–2 on penalty kicks. The women's team previously won bronze in both the 2012 London and 2016 Rio Games.

CANADA'S TOP OLYMPIAN

A bronze in the 4x100 metre relay at the 2020 Summer Games was the seventh Olympic medal win for Canadian swimmer Penny Oleksiak, making her the country's most decorated Olympian of all time at the age of 21. Along with an additional silver and bronze in Tokyo, Oleksiak took home a gold, a silver, and two bronzes in Rio in 2016, which made her the first Canadian to win four medals at a single Summer Games.

TOP POINTS

Damian Warner's gold medal win in the decathlon at the 2020 Tokyo Olympics earned him an additional award at home, when he was presented with the Lou Marsh Trophy in December. Established in 1936, the award is given annually to Canada's top athlete. Warner reached the 9,000-point mark in the 10-event track and field competition, making him only the fourth athlete to ever do so.

THE GREAT ONE SR.

Walter Gretzky may not have realized his own youthful dreams of playing in the NHL, but some might argue he did one better by passing on his own skills and knowledge to his son Wayne and, in turn, coaching him to becoming hockey's greatest player. In a country filled with hockey dads, Walter Gretzky, who died in March 2021 at the age of 82, was king.

MASAI UJIRI SIGNS LONG-TERM DEAL

Toronto Raptors president Masai Ujiri signed a new contract in August, adding vice-chairman to his title and reportedly upping his salary to $15 million a year. (Ujiri's 2013 contract paid him $15 million across five years.) The deal makes Ujiri—who led the Raptors to their first NBA victory in 2019—one of the NBA's most highly compensated executives.

A NEW HOPE

In October, the World Health Organization endorsed a vaccine proven to help prevent malaria—the first vaccine of its kind. Although the disease is rare in much of the world, it kills about half a million people a year—about half of them children—mainly in sub-Saharan Africa. Dubbed Mosquirix, the vaccine is expected to save tens of thousands of children annually.

OUT OF THIS WORLD

The universe got a little bigger in November when NASA announced the discovery of 301 exoplanets—planets that, like Earth, orbit stars—outside our own solar system. The discoveries came courtesy of ExoMiner, a new technology that helps scientists discern stars from planets at great distances. These new additions bring the total number of discovered planets to 4,870.

FAMILY REUNION

In June 2021, scientists announced the potential discovery of a previously unknown extinct species of human, which they dubbed Homo longi, or Dragon Man. The discovery came courtesy of a 146,000-year-old skull fossil first dug up nearly 90 years ago at a construction site in Harbin, China and stored by a family unsure of what to do with it. The skull finally was donated to a Chinese university in 2018.

A CURE DECADES IN THE MAKING

It was announced in November that an Ohio man in his late 50s was cured of Type 1 diabetes after receiving an infusion of insulin-produced cells grown from stem cells. Brian Shelton was the first patient in a clinical trial by Vertex Pharmaceuticals to test a treatment that had been under development for decades. Several more years of testing will be required before a cure is officially announced.

TREATMENT AT LIGHT SPEED

Coronavirus vaccine research undertaken prior to the current pandemic helped scientists develop COVID-19 treatments in record time. And while not all nations have equal access to the vaccines, they have slowly reduced cases of hospitalization and death in many areas, including North America. By February 2022, nearly 11 billion doses of the COVID-19 vaccines had been administered around the world.
